

Data Races Exercises

Data Race Example

- Write a task function which takes an `std::string` argument
  - The task function has a loop which displays the argument
  - The display of the argument is implemented one character at a time
- Write a program which runs this task function in three threads
- Run the program and explain the output